

Our Philosophy

Philosophy's don't always come easy, but when we thought about ours we realised we really just fell into it. Continuing to want to lead more connective lives within ourselves and through our work, it was simple to recognise our philosophy centered around working with nature.

She is our oldest and greatest teacher, why wouldn't we base our philosophy around and in homage to her.

She has shown us on the grandest of scales how ecosystems work effortlessly, through her guidance and infinite wisdom. Life is supported, death is embraced and it all comes together in a collection of unity, symbiotically formed to create an existence of one.

What knowledge there is to be learnt, observed and admired in such a system. There is nothing else like it on earth that can work in such peace and care for one another, that no one element is left behind.

We feel privileged to run a business that has the ability to utilise her wisdom throughout every garden we create or each service we develop.

Taking inspiration from nature, knowledge through observation and guidance from our connection to this earth, our responsibility is to follow Mother Nature's footsteps as best as possible. To encourage and embrace life through the gardens we create and pay forward what we have learnt along the way.

We feel that we are able to replicate some small parcel of this unity through the knowledge and wisdom we have gathered, over the many years, to help grow this connection further. From a world with such disconnect Mother Nature shows us there is hope in unity, and a way forward where if we help our fellow being, help is returned when needed.
