A SMALL INTRO

FINDING THE BALANCE BETWEEN YOUR GARDEN AND NATURE

Hello & Welcome

Firstly we would like to say thank you for considering us in helping you find that connection between your everyday life and Mother Nature

Before we dive into discovering what can become of your new garden space we would like to tell you about the reasoning behind the gardens we build...

WHY WE DO WHAT WE DO

We will all leave a footprint behind when we depart from this world, but the responsibility we have as a species is how big that footprint will be.

Through the actions of our everyday lives we can make small changes that have significant ripple affects on the rest of the world.

One of the biggest impacts, we believe, comes from creating that garden space within your home that intrinsically embraces nature.

A space like this creates a haven for plant and wildlife species. It embraces diversity and restores soil health. Whilst healing all that are living within and amongst her.

A garden like this creates a door step connection for you to be instantly grounded and returned to nature.

This is why we build the style of gardens that are inspired by Mother Nature and our Australian Landscapes.

As we advance forward as a technological species with greater populations, it is more important than ever to see your home, your garden in a new light.

Where can you make the changes needed for a more harmonious world for all of us to live among?

What Is Your Vision For Your Garden Space?

A sanctuary should be filled with sensory experiences. How do you feel when you close your eyes and think about this space? What smells come to you? What can you feel as you walk around and touch the garden? Are there any emotions around this space? This is what we want to discover and unfold with you...

What Form Of Sustainability Systems Would You Like To Have In Your Garden?

It's important to think of ways of how we can be self sufficient in our every day lives and how we can bring even the most common of practices back to a sustainable system in our home. From watering your garden, powering your appliances or creating your own soil amendments they all play a vital role in creating a more self sufficient way of living...

Who Will Be Enjoying Your Garden Sanctuary?

A garden space can be your little own oasis. A tranquil spot away from the world where you can immerse yourself in nature's beauty. This space can also be one where you share it with friends, family and four legged loved ones. This space is yours so share it with the world or make it your own...

Does Anyone Have Any Allergies Or Disabilities?

Our entire world should be inclusive of everyone and this is no different when it comes to your garden. This is important to recognise once you've established who will be enjoying your new space. You want it to be welcoming for all so considering access, materials to be used and most of all plants, is sometimes the starting point of designing the most suitable garden...

Are There Any Existing Elements Of Your Garden You Would Like To Keep?

Reusing existing elements in your new space is a great way to help reduce the cycle of waste in our world. Have a look around your garden and just make a list of everything you like. Then take a second look and have a think about those things that don't look so great now, but maybe they just need a new background to look and feel at home...

Are There Any Elements You Do Not Wish To See In Your New Garden Space?

Remember this is still your space, your sanctuary to be, so if there is nothing you want to keep and reuse maybe it can go to a new home. Think about those in your world or find organisations that can help take these items off your hands. Limiting our footprint as much as possible is key here...

How Would You Like To Incorporate Water Into Your Garden?

Water is the essence of life and without it we are unable to sustain life. Within your new garden you will have all manner of life forms, from plants to wildlife, insects and human beings. These are all creatures we need to consider and make room for if we truly want to have a thriving diverse ecosystem surrounding us. This element doesn't need to be grand or large, small spaces spotted around the garden is sufficient enough to help sustain your new visitors...

Do You Have Your Heart Set On Any Particular Elements For Your Garden?

Your new space needs to encompass your personality whilst working with nature, so this is where colours, shapes, sizes, particular materials & plants you'd like to see come into play. Tell us all about the plants you can't live without, the colours you must have, that perfect place to sit and what sort creatures big and small you would love to see in your garden...

Do You Require Specific Constructional Needs Or Wants In Your Garden?

To achieve a garden that includes all of the elements you need or want sometimes requires a little extra help. Consideration needs to be given to these elements especially where licensed trades are required and by identifying those constructional needs early on the right people can be contacted to ensure things run as smoothly as possible...

Are There Any Areas Of Your Property That Need Fixing Or Repairing Before Starting?

It's always fun to imagine your new garden and the feelings around it, but everything must start on stable foundations so if there is anything that needs addressing it's best to do so before you build your new garden instead of trying to fit it in later...

How Much Would You Like To Spend On Your New Sanctuary Retreat?

This is where we work with you to see how we can make your visioned garden or parts of come to life whilst making it affordable to your budget. We are no different to you when it comes to what we would love to spend and the reality of what we can. We understand everyone has obligations they need to fill & bills they need to pay, so by working together and strategizing we can come up with a plan together...

If you are unsure of a figure then start with a range you would like to build your garden for. With an indication of how much you would like to spend we will be able to direct you to one or more of our service that will best suit you...

Do You Have A House & Land Plan Or Measurements Of Your Area For Us?

It always helps us immensely, and makes the process faster, if you are able to provide this to us in the beginning. This way we are able to give you a starting point of what you can expect to pay for your new garden based on all of the information you have provided thus far...

If you are unsure of what measurements to give us simply write down the length x width of the space. Be sure to include any established structures that are staying, with the length x width of these too...
